

BE SAFE GOING OFFSHORE

BLUE WATER. BE SAFE GOING OFFSHORE

A good skipper will always treat the ocean with respect, so it's essential to plan and prepare. Remember:

- Check the weather forecast and your safety gear
- Plan for any change of conditions by anticipating wind, waves, tides and safe havens
- You must have a marine radio and a 406 MHz EPIRB distress beacon when more than 2 miles offshore
- Lifejacket – wear it at times of heightened risk like crossing a coastal bar or when conditions get rough
- Always let someone know where you're going and when you plan to return.
